SECOND-STAGE
STANDARD GIRDLES

At the physician’s discretion, the use of a compression garment following liposuction can comprise two stages. The first stage follows the immediate post-operative period and the first few days of treatment. A girdle with front (hook-and-eye closure) or side (zippered closure) opening should be used during this period.

Second-stage liposuction girdles are designed to be worn as an intermediate garment between the first-stage garment and the normal intimate apparel worn by the patient. These garments are fully closed and suitable for longer post-operative periods.

Second-stage liposuction girdles are available in beige and black.
